

FIN

SURREY / INDIE ROCK / ALTERNATIVE

Powerful vocals. Narrative-led songs. A solo artist moving between intimate moments and a more energetic, guitar-driven sound.

THE STORY SO FAR.

FIN is an indie rock and alternative artist from Surrey. His narrative-led songs combine powerful vocals, guitar-driven arrangements and emotionally honest writing, moving between intimate moments and energetic sections.

On stage, FIN performs as a solo act, singing with guitar and also playing piano. Using a Sheeran Looper X in stereo, he builds layers live in the room. His sets combine original material with carefully selected covers, with a focus on connection and atmosphere. From intimate venues to festivals, street parties and community events, live performance is a central part of his work.

Alongside his solo work, FIN composed Plastic Flowers Bloom Too with Will Walker. In 2026 he also played keys with Ross Harding at House of Blues, contributing photography and video, and photographed Harding at Radio Woking. He performed guitar and piano at the Escalate Arts event in Surrey in front of mayors and members of the public. FIN also played Lawrence, the keyboard player, in Hatton Musical Theatre's School of Rock at the Rhoda McGaw Theatre in Woking in 2025.
